2025 About This Report

SDG 17 — Partnerships for the Goals at CUTM AP

Centurion University of Technology and Management, Andhra Pradesh (CUTM AP) works through partnerships: with government on skills and self-employment policy, with NGOs and foundations to build training capacity, and with farmers, villages and schools around its Vizianagaram campus. This report brings together the university's evidence for six SDG 17 indicators of the Times Higher Education Impact Rankings for 2025.

Indicator	Claim	Key evidence in 2025	Where
17.2.1 Relationships with government — policy development	✔ Yes	Knowledge partner and project management unit for the Government of Andhra Pradesh (SEEDAP), with the university's strategy note written into the agreement; advisory partner to the National Skill Development Corporation (NSDC). Supporting: SIH 2025 (462 students, 77 teams).	Part 1, Annex A–D
17.2.2 Cross-sectoral dialogue about the SDGs	✔ Yes	3 dialogues initiated and hosted: 2nd Rythu Sammelanam (government, FPOs, industry, 400 farmers), Forensic Finds 2K25 international seminar (India, UAE), AgriSphere expert dialogue (with MSSRF).	Part 2, Annex D–F
17.2.5 Collaboration with NGOs	✔ Yes	Educational resources developed with 2 foundations: Jaquar Foundation (plumbing and sanitation lab, 1 Sep 2025) and FACTS Foundation (Cardiology Technician courses, 31 Dec 2025).	Part 3, Annex G–H
17.4.1 Commitment to meaningful SDG education	✔ Yes	33 skill courses mapped to SDG targets, taken by 1,464 students of all 4 schools (2,198 enrolments); 6 sustainability courses open to all.	Part 4, Annex I
17.4.2 Specific courses on sustainability	✔ Yes	6 dedicated sustainability electives, 221 enrolments, all continuing in 2026-27.	Part 5, Annex I
17.4.3 Education for the SDGs in the wider community	✔ Yes	3 programmes for local residents: 20 eye-health camps (3,900), 2nd Rythu Sammelanam (400 farmers, 100 school students), SMO training (131 women) — 4,531 people.	Part 6, Annex D, J, K

PART 1

Indicator 17.2.1

Relationships with Government — Policy Development

Direct input into SDG policy development by state and national government

17.2.1 Policy Partnerships with Government

SEEDAP (Government of Andhra Pradesh) and NSDC (Government of India)

Indicator 17.2.1 asks whether the university has direct involvement in, or input into, SDG policy development by government: identifying problems, developing policies and strategies, modelling likely futures, and monitoring interventions. In 2025 CUTM AP held two formal policy partnerships with government.

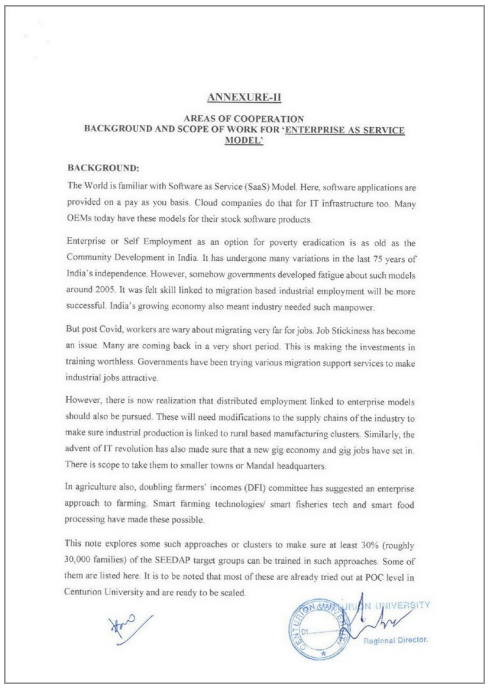

2	16	3	13
policy partnerships in force in 2025	roles defined in the state agreement	strategy approaches proposed	areas of cooperation with NSDC

SEEDAP — partner	Society for Employment Generation and Enterprise Development in Andhra Pradesh, Skills Development & Training Department, Government of Andhra Pradesh
SEEDAP — term	19.12.2024 to 18.12.2025 — in force for 2025
SEEDAP — university role	Knowledge partner and end-to-end project management unit (PMU) for self-employment programmes for rural youth; identifies enterprise clusters, assesses gaps and prepares a business plan for each cluster; 16 roles listed in the agreement
SEEDAP — strategy	The university's 'Enterprise as a Service' strategy note (Annexure II of the agreement) proposes 3 approaches: distributed manufacturing, IT app-based services and smart agriculture
NSDC — partner	National Skill Development Corporation, set up under India's National Skill Development Mission
NSDC — term	13.09.2024 to 12.09.2025 — in force for most of 2025
NSDC — university role	Advisory partner on 'Democratizing Future Skills': identifying the future skills India needs, building consensus at state and central level, and advising on lowering programme costs

The SEEDAP strategy sets a planned target for the two-year programme of 30,000 people, including at least 10,000 families through distributed manufacturing; these are future targets set out in the strategy, not results achieved in 2025.

ANNEXURE-II

AREAS OF COOPERATION
BACKGROUND AND SCOPE OF WORK FOR 'ENTERPRISE AS SERVICE MODEL'

BACKGROUND:

The World is familiar with Software as Service (SaaS) Model. Here, software applications are provided on a pay as you basis. Cloud companies do that for IT infrastructure too. Many OEMs today have these models for their stock software products.

Enterprise or Self Employment as an option for poverty eradication is as old as the Community Development in India. It has undergone many variations in the last 75 years of India's independence. However, somehow governments developed fatigue about such models around 2005. It was felt skill linked to migration based industrial employment will be more successful. India's growing economy also meant industry needed such manpower.

But post Covid, workers are wary about migrating very far for jobs. Job Stickiness has become an issue. Many are coming back in a very short period. This is making the investments in training worthless. Governments have been trying various migration support services to make industrial jobs attractive.

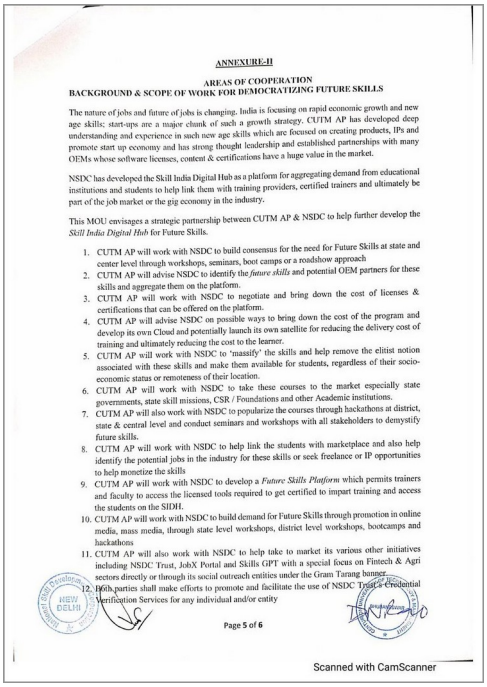

However, there is now realization that distributed employment linked to enterprise models should also be pursued. These will need modifications to the supply chains of the industry to make sure industrial production is linked to rural based manufacturing clusters. Similarly, the advent of IT revolution has also made sure that a new gig economy and gig jobs have set in. There is scope to take them to smaller towns or Mandal headquarters.

In agriculture also, doubling farmers' incomes (DFI) committee has suggested an enterprise approach to farming. Smart farming technologies/ smart fisheries tech and smart food processing have made these possible.

This note explores some such approaches or clusters to make sure at least 30% (roughly 30,000 families) of the SEEDAP target groups can be trained in such approaches. Some of them are listed here. It is to be noted that most of these are already tried out at POC level in Centurion University and are ready to be scaled.

Regional Director.

ANNEXURE-II

AREAS OF COOPERATION
BACKGROUND & SCOPE OF WORK FOR DEMOCRATIZING FUTURE SKILLS

The nature of jobs and future of jobs is changing. India is focusing on rapid economic growth and new age skills; start-ups are a major chunk of such a growth strategy. CUTM AP has developed deep understanding and experience in such new age skills which are focused on creating products, IPs and promote start up economy and has strong thought leadership and established partnerships with many OEMs whose software licenses, content & certifications have a huge value in the market.

NSDC has developed the Skill India Digital Hub as a platform for aggregating demand from educational institutions and students to help link them with training providers, certified trainers and ultimately be part of the job market or the gig economy in the industry.

This MOU envisages a strategic partnership between CUTM AP & NSDC to help further develop the Skill India Digital Hub for Future Skills.

1. CUTM AP will work with NSDC to build consensus for the need for Future Skills at state and center level through workshops, seminars, boot camps or a roadshow approach
2. CUTM AP will advise NSDC to identify the future skills and potential OEM partners for these skills and aggregate them on the platform.
3. CUTM AP will work with NSDC to negotiate and bring down the cost of licenses & certifications that can be offered on the platform.
4. CUTM AP will advise NSDC on possible ways to bring down the cost of the program and develop its own Cloud and potentially launch its own satellite for reducing the delivery cost of training and ultimately reducing the cost to the learner.
5. CUTM AP will work with NSDC to 'massify' the skills and help remove the elitist notion associated with these skills and make them available for students, regardless of their socio-economic status or remoteness of their location.
6. CUTM AP will work with NSDC to take these courses to the market especially state governments, state skill missions, CSR / Foundations and other Academic institutions.
7. CUTM AP will also work with NSDC to popularize the courses through hackathons at district, state & central level and conduct seminars and workshops with all stakeholders to demystify future skills.
8. CUTM AP will work with NSDC to help link the students with marketplace and also help identify the potential jobs in the industry for these skills or seek freelance or IP opportunities to help monetize the skills
9. CUTM AP will work with NSDC to develop a Future Skills Platform which permits trainers and faculty to access the licensed tools required to get certified to impart training and access the students on the SIDH.
10. CUTM AP will work with NSDC to build demand for Future Skills through promotion in online media, mass media, through state level workshops, district level workshops, bootcamps and hackathons
11. CUTM AP will also work with NSDC to help take to market its various other initiatives including NSDC Trust, JobX Portal and Skills GPT with a special focus on Fintech & Agri sectors directly or through its social outreach entities under the Gram Tarang banner.
12. Both parties shall make efforts to promote and facilitate the use of NSDC Trust's Credential Verification Services for any individual and/or entity

The university's exact role (items 1–16) and the role of SEEDAP

The exact role will be:

1. Identifying such enterprise clusters in the state of AP and assess their present position
2. Identify the market opportunities, companies that can provide linkages for such clusters
3. Arrange for skills training through SEEDAP
4. And arrange for networked distributed production, quality control and other services
5. Provide market linkages
6. The University will help SEEDAP in providing such services as a cluster project and will help in building, operating and managing such projects and handing them over to community structures, user groups, SHGs or producer companies
7. The university will identify such clusters in consultation with SEEDAP and other government agencies
8. University will help in sourcing the required raw material and other linkages
9. The targeted numbers will be 30,000 people in a period of 2 years
10. Based on this MOU, the University will work on an exact business plan for each of the clusters, identifying the potential, gaps and the ways and means of filling such gaps
11. Some such clusters are apparel, auto parts, dragon fruit cultivation, organic and smart agriculture clusters and drone manufacturing and services clustets
12. The University will bring in out of box thinking and innovative solutions with minimal funding requirements for such services.
13. The endeavour is to harness existing infrastructure, skills and resources already there in the state and provide only gap filling services
14. The University will also help in harnessing CSR funds and corporate partnerships for successful implementation of these projects
15. The University will work with SEEDAP in any other aspects that may arise for successful implementation of these cluster projects
16. This MOU is non-financial in nature and each project will be discussed in detailed and approved by SEEDAP once the projects are fully developed.

Role of SEEDAP:

a. To nominate a single point of contact(SPOC) to coordinate the implementation of the Programme.

b. To give wide publicity about job opportunities and the joint Programmes being conducted with the second party particularly in educational, placements and self-employment to the candidates.

c. To organize seminars, job fairs, orientation camps and other outreach events to identify candidates for the specific training programmes.

Annexure II — background and problem analysis for the 'Enterprise as a Service' model

ANNEXURE-II

AREAS OF COOPERATION
BACKGROUND AND SCOPE OF WORK FOR 'ENTERPRISE AS SERVICE MODEL'

BACKGROUND:

The World is familiar with Software as Service (SaaS) Model. Here, software applications are provided on a pay as you basis. Cloud companies do that for IT infrastructure too. Many OEMs today have these models for their stock software products.

Enterprise or Self Employment as an option for poverty eradication is as old as the Community Development in India. It has undergone many variations in the last 75 years of India's independence. However, somehow governments developed fatigue about such models around 2005. It was felt skill linked to migration based industrial employment will be more successful. India's growing economy also meant industry needed such manpower.

But post Covid, workers are wary about migrating very far for jobs. Job Stickiness has become an issue. Many are coming back in a very short period. This is making the investments in training worthless. Governments have been trying various migration support services to make industrial jobs attractive.

However, there is now realization that distributed employment linked to enterprise models should also be pursued. These will need modifications to the supply chains of the industry to make sure industrial production is linked to rural based manufacturing clusters. Similarly, the advent of IT revolution has also made sure that a new gig economy and gig jobs have set in. There is scope to take them to smaller towns or Mandal headquarters.

In agriculture also, doubling farmers' incomes (DFI) committee has suggested an enterprise approach to farming. Smart farming technologies/ smart fisheries tech and smart food processing have made these possible.

This note explores some such approaches or clusters to make sure at least 30% (roughly 30,000 families) of the SEEDAP target groups can be trained in such approaches. Some of them are listed here. It is to be noted that most of these are already tried out at POC level in Centurion University and are ready to be scaled.

CENTURION UNIVERSITY
Dt.
Regional Director.

A8

SEEDAP MoU — page 8

Annexure II — Strategy 1 (distributed manufacturing) and Strategy 2 (IT app-based services)

1. Distributed Manufacturing / Service Clusters

Digital manufacturing and implementation of shop floor to top floor connected production systems approaches (IIOT based) , have made rural based manufacturing and linking them to industrial production supply chains through IIOT a distinct option. The following three can be tried out, providing self-employment to at least 10,000 families.

a. Distributed garment manufacturing clusters: Here, cutting and finishing, washing and packing will be centralized but sewing can be decentralized to household level. EV pick up vehicles can be used for aggregation. Raw material can be sourced from garment aggregators and the finished products can be sold to them. RFID based garment tracking will make sure quality is maintained. Later, such workers can be formed into production companies and even can be linked to branding and marketing agencies. Centurion University has experience in such pilots, and they can be scaled.
b. Auto parts / EV 3 wheeler assembly is another area where this can be tried in some limited geographies like Ananthapuram or Sri City where already auto clusters are developed. We can use the ITI/ diploma colleges as a base which can be training cum production centers or aggregators or network managers.
c. Drone clusters are already well tried in different parts of India. Drone Assembly and drone-based services are ideal to be creating self-employment and they can be connected to drone companies for network management.

There is scope to use some educated youth start-ups for providing design and product development services on payment basis.

2. IT app based services

a. Fin Tech: India stack has spawned a huge fin tech industry as a cottage industry. The self-employment can be created for village-based banking service providers using apps developed by MSME sector.
b. Agriculture Enterprise Support: There are a lot of apps development for providing smart agriculture and precision agriculture services including soil health monitoring, crop monitoring, yield improvements and marketing and input linkages. Kalgudi, IFFCO Kisan and Centurion Universities Krishi Aadhar is some of them. All these apps need field extension force. Such force can be plus two science graduates who can be trained to deliver such smart agriculture enterprise services. Such agents again will

For CENTURION UNIVERSITY
Dt.
Regional Director.

SEEDAP MoU — page 9

Annexure II — Strategy 3 (smart agriculture); proposed target; signatures and seal be supported by Network Managers. There is huge scope to provide a network of such people on self-employment basis. This will also improve crop productivity and farmers' incomes.

c. App based food delivery / taxi/ auto services: These can be extended to tier 3 towns or mandals. An open-source app can be created and provided by SEEDAP for such agents at Mandal level. Self-employment can be created for such food and services delivery. Such an open-source app can also move people away from Swiggy or Zomato or Ola or Uber and create local entrepreneurs.

3. Smart Agriculture or High-Value Agriculture

- There is scope here to introduce high value crops like Gerbera, Dutch Roses, Button Mushrooms, Medicinal plants under protected polyhouse conditions. Dragon fruit cultivation has been practiced in tribal areas and in Telangana.
- Even LED light-based speed growing methods have been tried. Hydroponics /Aquaponics, Recirculating Aquaculture Systems can be tried. High value crops like Lettuce, broccoli, cherry tomatoes and other salad crops can be grown. All these are again tried in different locations in India. Saffron is also tried successfully in Telangana.
- It is possible to target creation of about 30,000 enterprise-based self-employment categories. Once an in-principle approval is provided, detailed business plans for each of these enterprise options can be developed clearly outlining the investments/potential for employment/likely income to be created.
- Centurion University is prepared to serve as both a knowledge partner and an implementation partner for these options.

Annexure II — 'Democratizing Future Skills': the university's advisory and consensus-building roles

ANNEXURE-II

AREAS OF COOPERATION
BACKGROUND & SCOPE OF WORK FOR DEMOCRATIZING FUTURE SKILLS

The nature of jobs and future of jobs is changing. India is focusing on rapid economic growth and new age skills; start-ups are a major chunk of such a growth strategy. CUTM AP has developed deep understanding and experience in such new age skills which are focused on creating products, IPs and promote start up economy and has strong thought leadership and established partnerships with many OEMs whose software licenses, content & certifications have a huge value in the market.

NSDC has developed the Skill India Digital Hub as a platform for aggregating demand from educational institutions and students to help link them with training providers, certified trainers and ultimately be part of the job market or the gig economy in the industry.

This MOU envisages a strategic partnership between CUTM AP & NSDC to help further develop the Skill India Digital Hub for Future Skills.

1. CUTM AP will work with NSDC to build consensus for the need for Future Skills at state and center level through workshops, seminars, boot camps or a roadshow approach
2. CUTM AP will advise NSDC to identify the future skills and potential OEM partners for these skills and aggregate them on the platform.
3. CUTM AP will work with NSDC to negotiate and bring down the cost of licenses & certifications that can be offered on the platform.
4. CUTM AP will advise NSDC on possible ways to bring down the cost of the program and develop its own Cloud and potentially launch its own satellite for reducing the delivery cost of training and ultimately reducing the cost to the learner.
5. CUTM AP will work with NSDC to 'massify' the skills and help remove the elitist notion associated with these skills and make them available for students, regardless of their socio-economic status or remoteness of their location.
6. CUTM AP will work with NSDC to take these courses to the market especially state governments, state skill missions, CSR / Foundations and other Academic institutions.
7. CUTM AP will also work with NSDC to popularize the courses through hackathons at district, state & central level and conduct seminars and workshops with all stakeholders to demystify future skills.
8. CUTM AP will work with NSDC to help link the students with marketplace and also help identify the potential jobs in the industry for these skills or seek freelance or IP opportunities to help monetize the skills
9. CUTM AP will work with NSDC to develop a Future Skills Platform which permits trainers and faculty to access the licensed tools required to get certified to impart training and access the students on the SIDH.
10. CUTM AP will work with NSDC to build demand for Future Skills through promotion in online media, mass media, through state level workshops, district level workshops, bootcamps and hackathons
11. CUTM AP will also work with NSDC to help take to market its various other initiatives including NSDC Trust, JobX Portal and Skills GPT with a special focus on Fintech & Agri sectors directly or through its social outreach entities under the Gram Tarang banner.
12. Both parties shall make efforts to promote and facilitate the use of NSDC Trust's Credential Verification Services for any individual and/or entity

Annexure II — further roles and indicative list of future skills

13. CUTM AP will also explore the possibility of developing specific hardware that is needed for the effective delivery of training like EV Labs, Robotic Arms, Logical Controllers, PCBs, Laptops etc.

- Indicative list of Future Skills

1. Digital 3d assets: They revolve around tools like Unity, Unreal, Dassault 3d tools, Autodesk maya and Adobe Dreamweaver. This universe has one of the largest freelance developer communities. People can develop the assets virtually from anywhere, upload them into marketplace anywhere and get paid through NFTs
2. Data Science and AI/ML: AI & data visualization segment uses tools like Power BI, IBM Watson itself, ETL family, Python, Apriso integration. There is dynamic dashboarding that involves APIs, document scraping, web crawling and a host of other skills Generative AI and prompt engineering is the new age.
3. New age survey – digital twins and BIM: DGPS, drone based LidaR surveys, multi spectral and hyper spectral imaging is used in smart cities. Digital twins, correlating cadastral maps with satellite maps, Digital map making, Digital Terrain modelling (DTM). Coupled with AI/ML, such tools are used for mapping water bodies, smart fisheries and smart agriculture too.
4. Blockchain: Bitcoin, Ethereum, ICP & Enterprise block chain services are offering a host of new age skills and NFTs have gained currency. This, couple with digital asset making is transforming gaming, entertainment, education, customer service experience (cX) in both retail and websites too.
5. AR, VR, Metaverse: Design, animation and various other skills required in this domain.
6. Others: Chip Making, IIOT, Cloud Computing, Genetics & Genomics, Nanomaterial, EV Technology, Quantum Computing, Hydroponics & Vertical Agriculture, Drone Technology & Any Other
