BLOOD DONATION DRIVE - NCC, NSS

Centurion University organized a dedicated Blood Donation Camp to inspire students, faculty, and staff to contribute to a life-saving cause. The event witnessed the active participation of NCC cadets from our university, accompanied by enthusiastic NSS volunteers. Their collective involvement brought energy, unity, and a strong spirit of service to the occasion. Marking the 77th NCC Raising Day, the drive stood as a proud reflection of social responsibility, with 125 donors, each offering their support with compassion and commitment, turning the day into a meaningful act of community service.

NATIONAL PHARMACY DAY - 2K25

The School of Pharmaceutical Sciences inaugurated National Pharmacy Week 2K25 with great enthusiasm, marking the commencement of a series of meaningful and engaging activities. The celebration began with vibrant cultural performances alongside various pharmacy-centric events designed to highlight the skills and knowledge of budding pharmacists. This year's theme, "Pharmacists as Advocates of Vaccination," underscores the pivotal role pharmacists play in strengthening public health through vaccination awareness and support. As part of the ongoing celebrations, a Health Camp organized by the students of the School of Pharmaceutical Sciences. The camp focused on promoting community health and preventive care, while also providing hands-on learning exposure for the students. The initiative reflected the institution's commitment to social responsibility and its continuous efforts to foster healthcare awareness among the public.
